

TRIOPTICS is concentrating its interferometer business at its location in Berlin

As from July 1st, 2013 the responsibility for the entire μ Phase[®] product line was handed to the TRIOPTICS Berlin GmbH that so far has been responsible for the software development. Hence, soft- and hardware solutions are made available by one company able to offer customers an even better service. Contact persons, orders submitted and obligations to take delivery remain the same. We will inform our business partners about changes concerning logistical aspects. With regard to the further development of our μ Phase[®] products, this bundle of competencies will enable us to focus on market and customer needs as well as to implement innovative solutions. In the long term we want to strengthen the market position of TRIOPTICS interferometry and make it an important part of the TRIOPTICS measurement technology portfolio.
